

The following is submitted by the Aquatic Education Institute in support of our application to the FBC for approval to offer the course:

“How do the code changes affect me” An online look at the 2004 Florida building code changes regarding plumbing, gas and swimming pools.

This course is designed to be offered online.

Course Syllabus:

The 2004 Florida Building Code has undergone significant changes and it is the obligation of all Florida licensed contractors to become knowledgeable of the changes that affect their ability to construct safe and secure projects. This course is not intended to supply core code training but is intended to update the contractor in recent changes.

This course meets the updating needs of those contractors performing work under the Plumbing and Fuel Gas segments of the FBC. This one hour course brings the contractor up to date with the 2004 building code and points out the most significant changes from the 2001 Florida Building Code, Plumbing and the 2001 Florida Building Code, Gas. The International Building Code is now the basis for the 2004 Florida Building Code, Plumbing.
