F. Reminder e-mail message sent to all FBC accreditors and providers on June 3, 2010:

Dear FBC Approved Education Provider -

This is a quick message to remind everyone that courses submitted through the Building Code Information System (BCIS) for updating need to be submitted as an update, NOT a new course.

Why does it matter? There are two reasons:

1. If you submit it as a new course, you are not eligible for "administrative approval" pending FBC ratification, and that slows you down.
2. If your updated course does get an "administrative approval" then it should be eligible for faster processing through DBPR.

To submit your course for updating, you will need your existing FBC course number. Once you are in the system, you should be issued a modified (not new) course number which will be the existing number plus an extension of ".1" or ".2" (depending on the number of times you have updated the course). For example, if you update course number 555.0, then it will become course number 555.1 when entered into the BCIS system.

If your updated course is submitted as a new course, it really cannot be treated as an updated course after the fact (allowing for administrative approval). This effort has been made, but there really is no authority to allow that.

Please feel free to contact us with any questions.

Thank you for being an FBC Approved Education Provider.

Regards,
Cam Fentriss
